Leaders today are always looking for new and more effective ways to motivate people to get things done or to achieve more. Leaders cannot motivate people. Motivation is something that is intrinsic and people need to choose to be self-motivated. That doesn't mean that leaders cannot engage in actions and activities that spark or squelch someone's self-motivation, because you can. As a leader, you can inspire people to be self-motivated. You can cultivate an environment where self-motivation can flourish. In this 6-disc audio CD series, Dr. Kimberly Alyn shares some powerful techniques that will ignite motivation in others. Leaders will learn valuable lessons on how to use their positive power of influence to create an environment of inspiration for those around them.
