

Wake Up...Live the Life You Love: In Service

All truly successful people recognize the need to be of service. Giving of time, talents and resources is a deeply-felt impulse that expands the soul of humanity and benefits both the giver and the receiver. This volume seeks to reveal the need to be of service; to reflect on the benefit to the giver; to outline plans and mechanisms that allow us to be of greater service, and to raise examples of service as an inspiration to others. Authors were encouraged to ask: How have others made a difference in my life by being of service? What have I done to serve others? How did I learn about the importance of service? Why is service to others so necessary at this time? Who should most strive to be of service? How can I best understand how to serve? What help or example can I offer to those who wonder about the role and value of service to others? More than fifty writers, mentors, entrepreneurs and professional leaders have joined Steven E, Lee Beard, Brian Tracy and Gregory Scott Reid to make the difference of a lifetime.
